Kentucky has more illiterates than have Oklahoma, West Virginia and Indiana combined.

"My Old Kentucky Home", is just as dear to the people of Knott county as it is to Mr. Morrow.

Blow your bugle Mr. Morrow all you desire to, it will serve to no purpose, for Owensley Stanley, has this race won.

Stanley, the man who can ride a mule, ox or a racehorse, can always be depended upon to fill his engagements.

"Give me liberty or give me death," so says that gallant defender of equal rights and home loving care, Owensley Stanley.

To execute a given promise made in good faith to the people it requires just such a man as Owensley Stanley at the head of affairs.

Let every man constitute himself a committee to see that he and his neighbors cast their votes for Stanley and the entire democratic ticket.

Lets fool the republicans with such a rousing majority for Stanley, that they will become fully aware of what a democratic cyclone looks like.

Keep the good work. The old rooster is crowing loud and long while the elephant when last seen was hiking his way back to the wilds of Africa.

No one understands me, no one agrees with me.—The Kaiser.

When one understands him, how could one agree with him?—Rosen.

The Ladies Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will give their annual Silver Tea Friday, October 29 7:30 P. M. Everybody is cordially invited.

Stanley and Black loom up everywhere like two shining stars to light the way to good times and prosperity and Woodrow Wilson records the motion.

The bugle notes have at last been wafted upon the air of democracy until every section of the commonwealth vibrates with their most sounding call.

Cool, calculative and reasonable in all matters that once before him for adjudication, Owensley Stanley is the one man of all to be governor of Kentucky.

The democratic platform contains good planks only, but without such a firm and resolute leader as Owensley Stanley it could not be put into actual effect.

As a vote getter, Owensley Stanley stands far above any other Kentuckian of today. The more he is known the farther advanced he is ahead of all other competitors.

Kentucky has more illiterates than have the states of Wyoming, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, North Dakota, South Dakota, Washington, Oregon, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska combined.

The great democratic organization was never so perfect as now. The name of Stanley seems to have electrified the whole people. Go and stamp under the rooster and all will be forgotten.

Those democrats who talk and never work, have no claim upon the party. Those that put their shoulders to the wheel and hand out the goods are true and genuine believers in Jeffersonian principles.

"Who are these mountain people?" said an ignorant but wealthy city man. "They are plain citizens, seated in cane-bottom chairs, on rag carpets, before open fire-places, with their babies on their knees."

If you are pioneers in your advocacy of the democratic ticket, then pull off your coats and plunge into the thickest of the fray for Owensley Stanley and his associates for the cause of good government and better times.

Maud Muller on a summer's day watched the hired man rake hay. She laughed and chortled in her glee when up his pants leg crawled a bee. Later the farm hand laughed in turn when a big grasshopper crawled up her'n.

Every democrat who gives his brain as well as his strong arm to the cause he preaches, is deserving of the very highest encomium from his party. And victory will always perch itself upon the honor of such democrats as these.

Miss Cora Dow, aged 47, died from tuberculosis at Cincinnati Sunday night. She was the founder of the chain of Dow drug store and was the most widely known and most successful business woman in the west. Her stores at Cincinnati she sold a few weeks ago to a syndicate for about a million dollars.

"No illiteracy Sunday" is not a plea for funds, but a plea for prayer and co-operation. Many teachers have volunteered to teach, the editors have given and are giving columns of space and we do not believe Christian brethren will withhold their aid when illiteracy means NO BIBLE READING AND NO ATTENDANCE AT SUNDAY SCHOOL by our illiterate population.

SCHOOL FAIR POSTPONED.

The school fair which was postponed on account of so much sickness throughout the county will take place Saturday, Nov. 20th at Graded School building. Much interest has been manifested in this school fair both by teachers and pupils.

FINE COWS SOLD.

Mr. G. B. Swinebroad, the champion Jersey breeder of this county, sold a few days ago, six choice Jersey cows, with calves by side, to Mr. George Burge, of Jefferson county, for $100 a head. Mr. Swinebroad has a number of prize winners of this breed, some of which are thought to be the best in the state.

GOES TO RICHMOND.

Mr. Henry Conn, who has conducted the blacksmith shop for several years past at Point Leavelle, has bought an interest in a garage with his brother, Frank Conn, at Richmond, and moved with his family to that city. Mr. Tom Hurt has leased the shop and is prepared to look after the patrons and to give satisfaction. Mr. Conn wishes to thank the good people there for their trade, which he appreciated and asks them to patronize his successor as liberally as was done in the past.

DOLLAR PIES.

The pie supper given at Rice's Academy last week, by Miss Margaret O'Hearn, was a financial success in every way. The large orderly crowd added very much to the enthusiasm and the bidding was very spirited from the time the first pie was offered. The total of twenty-four pies brought the round sum of twenty-four dollars. While he failed to get every pie that was offered, it is said that Mr. N. J. Gooney never failed to make a good bid and several were "knocked off" to this popular pie eater.

HIGHWAY MARKERS.

Peter Lee Atherton, President Jackson Highway Association, Louisville, in correspondence with the President of Boone Way Association, this place says:

"So far as I can see at this time there will be no contest for the location of the Jackson Highway between here and Lexington and I can see no possible objection to the Boone Way and Jackson Highway using the same road, the marking for one road could be put on one side and for the other on the other side. We will all work together to make the road as good as possible for everybody who goes over it."

A HALLOWE'EN SOCIAL AND PROLIC

The Bryantville School will give a Halloween Social on Saturday night, Oct. 30th at 8 o'clock, for the benefit of a school library. All are invited to come and help make merry.

The witch will appear and ghosts will haunt all superstitious people. The fortune tellers will be on hand and all are urged to have the future foretold. There will be a "Fish Pond" which was enjoyed by all the children as well as the old. Some eminent story tellers will be present and a good time is expected in general. All who wish may mask and will present a guessing contest. Come and bring a merry crowd and look out for the "Goblins".

GREAT CROWD AT DEMOCRATIC RALLY.

One of the biggest political Democratic gatherings ever held in this county was that which greeted Senator Ollie M. James, at the Fair grounds near this city last Friday. The city was literally blocked with buggies, wagons and automobiles, large delegations being on hand from Lincoln, Boyle, Madison and Jessamine. Garrard county Democracy turned out in full force and enjoyed the old fashioned barbecue that had been prepared on the grounds by a large force of help, where burgoo in abundance was served to the hungry crowd. The Danville band of twelve pieces furnished the music which was good and added very much to the happy occasion. Editor J. E. Robinson introduced the speaker and incidentally put in some good words for the local ticket which everyone should be interested in electing next Tuesday. When the distinguished Kentucky Senator mounted the rostrum, repeated and deafening applause greeted him. He was most happy in his ready and continuous strains of oratory.

Answering criticisms of the special tax made necessary by war conditions abroad, he said when the tariff was enacted the administration had a right to expect that revenue would come from the usual sources, but an anticipated war stopped international commerce.

"We didn't make the war," he said, "but, thank God, Woodrow Wilson prevented us from getting into it."

Then he told what had been subjected to this special tax—liquors, cigars and cigarettes, documentary stamps and Pullman car tickets.

"We tax luxuries which people can do without. The Republicans taxed the necessities of life. We tax the man who rides in a Pullman. The Republicans would have taxed the man who rides in a day coach."

He said that the defeat of the Democratic ticket this fall would be ascribed to the unpopularity of the National Administration and considered a rebuke to Woodrow Wilson, and was vociferously applauded when he added: "Such a calamity will not befall us. Owensley Stanley will be elected by 40,000 majority."

He paid a high tribute to Stanley, who, he said, had been tested during his twelve years in Congress, and in over a thousand rollcalls there could not be found a vote of Stanley's upon the wrong side.

"Labor never had a better or more constant friend, and the farmers of Kentucky will not soon forget how heroically he struggled in their behalf against the power of monopoly."

Comparing the present state administration with that of A. E. Wilson, he called Gov. McCreary "that splendid leader," and praised his administration of affairs in Kentucky for progress, honesty and efficiency.

He said the money of the state had been well spent, over a million for schools and over $900,000 for Confederate pensions.

He made light of the charge that State Superintendent Hamlett spent money for something to eat while traveling.

"They do not mention that he recovered over a hundred thousand dollars for the public schools from the Southern Pacific. They charge him with spending $3,000 expense money, but do not mention that he uncovered the padding of census figures and saved $300,000 to the pupils of the common schools; they do not say anything about the increase of the school per capita and the lengthening of the school term," said the senator.

He said the statement of Mr. Morrow that Kentucky owes a debt of $3,000,000 is misleading, that as a matter of fact when the taxes of this year are returned to the auditor the debt will be less than $1,500,000, which is trifling as compared to the debts of many states whose resources are much more limited than Kentucky's.

"The nation looks to Kentucky in this supreme test. Lovers of Democracy everywhere are anxiously awaiting your verdict here. The effect of our action in Kentucky in the coming contest will not only be state-wide, yes, my fellow-citizens, it will be even more—it will be world-wide. The issue is plain and unmistakable—it's plainly shown between our opponents and Mr. Stanley. They denounced the matchless record of Woodrow Wilson and the national Democracy, and Stanley approves that record. I submit the issue with all confidence to the greatest and fairest jury ever impaneled—the voters of Kentucky."

Senator James closed his magnificent address with one of the most eloquent and touching perorations ever listened to by an audience, when he said that when the Kings, Kaisers and potentates of Europe were summoned to the Great White Throne with the brand of Cain upon their brows, President Woodrow Wilson would be greeted by the King of Kings with "Blessed are the peace-makers, for they shall be called the children of God."

POSTPONED.

On account of so much sickness in the community, the oyster supper announced in our last issue to take place at Point Lick under the auspices of the local W. C. T. U. at that place has been postponed to some future date.

Edmund Murphy, deputy sheriff at Kings Mountain met his death Saturday night while walking on the trestle on Fishing Creek south of King's Mountain. Mr. Murphy had been in King's Mountain all day Saturday collecting taxes and had started to his home and was crossing the trestle, when he was overtaken by a train, but he swung down between the supports and the engine and several cars passed over him, but believing, it is supposed that the train had all passed over he raised his head a few inches and that was when he met his death. His brains were scattered along the track. Mr. Murphy was 56 years old and one of the best known citizens of this county.

THE HIGHWAY SITUATION IN KENTUCKY.

In Meeting of Southern Appalachian Good Roads Association, Blackfield W. Va., October 14, 1915.

(By James Maret, President "Hoone Way" Mt. Vernon, Ky.)

One hundred and four, out of 120 counties in Kentucky, have taken advantage of the State aid road law, enacted in the year 1915 and are actively at work, or soon will be, in the construction of new inter-county seat highways or the reconstruction or improving existing turnpikes. Southeastern Kentucky, as well as the other mountainous section of Eastern portion of the state has plodged with nothing much better than "trails" since Boone passed this way a hundred and forty years ago.

The most important thru highway proposition, to the people of Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina and Virginia, at this time is "Boone Way," now being constructed from Cumberland Gap northward to connect with the Kentucky system of turnpikes. This road has been routed from Cumberland Gap to Louisville, across the state, a distance of 250 miles, via Middleboro, Pineville, Barboursville, Corkin, London, Mt. Vernon, Crab Orchard, Stanford, Lancaster, Danville, Harrodsburg, Lawrenceburg, (west loop), Nicholasville, Lexington, Versailles, Frankfort, Shelbyville, thence to Louisville.

There is a turnpike from Crab Orchard to Louisville, a distance of 155 miles, which is being improved by every county thru which this highway passes leaving 65 miles to be made between Crab Orchard and Cumberland Gap. This construction now under way, is expected to be completed by August 1916.

The East loop of Dixie Highway, that portion between Chattanooga and Indianapolis, will use 85 miles of the road-bed of Boone Way, (Dixie-Boone), between Cumberland Gap and Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, where it diverges for Richmond, Lexington, Cincinnati and Indianapolis. W. J. Sparks, of Mt. Vernon, is president and James Maret, of that place, is secretary of the East Kentucky, Tennessee Dixie Highway Association, an auxiliary to the parent organization, with duties of looking after and encouraging the early completion of the work on this division or Eastern loop of this great highway between Chattanooga and Indianapolis. Most good roads readers recall the fact that the Dixie Highway (with loops) is routed from Chicago to Miami, Florida; the west loop diverges at Indianapolis going via Louisville, and Nashville to Chattanooga where it converges with Eastern loop.

Yet another route has been located and named the Dixie Bee Line. Starting from Chicago, going via Evansville, Indiana, and entering Kentucky at Henderson, thence via Hopkinsville and Guthrie to Nashville.

The Jackson Highway lately put on the map, is another important movement. Peter Lee Atherton, a great Highway man, of Louisville, was elected president of this Association at its recent convention at Nashville. The routing of this highway is about as follows: One branch beginning at Chicago going via Indianapolis to Louisville, the other starting at Buffalo or Niagara Falls thence across the Western portion of New York; Pennsylvania across Ohio and entering the state of Kentucky at Mayville thence via Lexington, and from that point will go over the roadbed of Boone Way (Boone-Jackson) through Frankfort to Louisville where it converges with the Chicago division thence to New Orleans via Hardtown, Glasgow and Scottsville, Kentucky to Nashville, Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile on to the Crescent City.

Eastern Kentucky counties are working on a proposition to build a highway from Whitesburg, Letcher county, lying on the border of Virginia, to Richmond Kentucky, thru the counties of Letcher, Leslie, Perry, Breathitt, Lee and Estill, there to connect with the Dixie Highway. It is proposed to name this road the "McCreary Highway", in honor of our Governor, who has been a consistent friend and worker in the good roads movement.

Kentucky has got into the good roads game for keeps, as is evidenced by the fact that 104 of her counties have applied for state aid and gone to work. It is to be recalled that the Legislature, in 1914, passed a road law which allows any county in the state to draw from the State treasury an amount equal to that expended by said county upon the construction of new roads or the reconstruction of old ones. The first one, however which must receive attention shall be inter-county seat roads. Where a county appropriates and uses $100,000 upon the roads, in accordance to statutes, the state repays $50,000 in yearly payments until that amount has been refunded to the county. Along with this bill was a provision levying five cents upon all property throughout the state, which fund is placed in the treasury for meeting these payments. Under this law there has been the greatest awakening on the highway subject that ever took place in the old commonwealth.

A large number of counties have voted bond issues. Others are following almost daily. But few counties have turned down the proposition. The latest to carry was Fayette county, which has the best system of pikes in the state, yet voted a $300,000 bond issue to further improve its splendid highways.

Bonds and appropriations to the amount of $1,850,000 has been voted and made by the counties thru which Boone Way and East Dixie Highway pass in Kentucky for the construction these and local roads.

It is proposed, during 1916 to route Boone Way in Southeast from Cumberland Gap in Mocksville, N. C., the old home of Daniel Boone, who left that point on his memorable march in 1775 for Kentucky, guiding the Hendersons to Honneshoro. The route will probably be about as follows: Via Bristol (Va Tenn) Elizabethton, Tennessee, Elk Park, Avery county, North Carolina to Linville; thence over the "Great of Blue Ridge Highway," (Boone-Crest) to Blowing Rock; thence over the Bristol Charlotte Highway thru Patterson, Lenoir, Hickory, Newton and Stateville to Mocksville, with a branch or loop from Linville to Ashville and Baltimore, over Crest of Blue Ridge Highway; then thru Oldfort, Marion, Bridgewater, Morganton, and Connelly Springs to Hickory, there to converge with Eastern loop for Mocksville. A spur is also proposed from Blowing Rock to Boone, in Watauga county, North Carolina. The distance from Louisville to Mocksville 600 miles. Cumberland Gap being the exact half way point.

The year 1915 still has almost three months to its credit, but, in the progress made in its first three quarters, it has more to its credit of substantial achievement for Kentucky's immediate and lasting betterment than any decade of years in the last half century."

(The next annual meeting of the Southern Appalachian Good Roads Association will be held at Lexington, Kentucky, in October 1916. James Maret, of Mt. Vernon, was re-elected Kentucky's Vice President of the Association.)

SOME TENNESSEE FOLKS TELL HOW THEY WON

Sick people want to be well in a hurry.

A great many, perhaps most all, illnesses have their beginning in derangements of the stomach and digestive tract.

May's Wonderful Remedy starts in at the first stage to put stomach sufferers on the way to health. The first dose proves it.

It is taken with success everywhere. Here are the words of two Tennessee people who have taken it:

MISS CORA FISHER, 805 Saxon avenue, Memphis—"Have taken your medicine and it worked like a charm—has removed quite a number of gall stones. It does just as you said it would."

MRS. W. J. WARD, Sparta, Tenn.—"I can honestly recommend your remedy to all sufferers from constipation and stomach trouble. Indigestion seems a thing of the past with me." May's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

There never was a more opportune time to elect a man who is so well versed in the daily wants of all the people as Owsley Stanley has shown himself to be.

When Stanley, Black, James and many other great defenders of democracy get through handling the poor old elephant he will not be a fit subject for the honeyard.

Now that the thunderous tones of the mountains have acclaimed their allegiance to the cause of Owsley Stanley and democracy, let the rest of the state acquiesce in the same way.

Mr. Doolin, living about 2 miles north east of this place met with a serious accident when his buggy was run into by an auto going at a rapid rate. His buggy was practically ruined and he was considerably injured by the fall and had to have medical attention.

The Womans Club

(Edited By The Womans Club)

"Modern Landscapes" was the subject carefully and painstakingly handled by Mrs. H. Clay Sutton at the last club meeting. Interest in the club and club work increases week by week.

Mrs. J. G. Grabbie, of Richmond, state chairman of press department writes thanking us for year book and compliments us on being first to send one in. Mrs. Alfred Zembrod, of Lexington, State chairman of Art department, also compliments and congratulates our club on year book and programs.

Miss Annie Lee Samuel, of Frankfort, the first woman game warden in Kentucky, said she secured her commission simply to encourage members of her sex to lend a hand in the conservation of game and song birds in Kentucky.

"The commission," she said, "is asking for the organization of clubs all over the State to co-operate with it in protecting game. Hundreds of women own land and thousands are interested in the protection of birds. I think they could play an important part in arousing a local sentiment in favor of the observance of the game laws, and they should join these organization. I know of a great many women who are interested and have reported infractions of the law."

Miss Samuel is a member of one of Frankfort's oldest and leading families, and has been connected with the Game and Fish Commission since its creation and organization in 1912.

EASY WAY TO MAKE HAIR ATTRACTIVE.

Ladies who find trouble in properly or attractively arranging and dressing their hair should try using a little Parisian Sage twice daily for a while and note the remarkable improvement. Parisian Sage, which can be obtained from R. E. McRoberts or any drug counter, makes the hair soft, lustrous, fluffy and wavy, takes out the dull, lifeless appearance, dissolves the dandruff and stimulates the hair roots into healthy normal action. Instead of merely sprinkling the hair, it should be rubbed right into the scalp with the finger tips. Parisian Sage is a delightful treatment for both hair and scalp, cannot possibly injure the hair and is very inexpensive.

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good. I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardul, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardul, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of wonderful success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardul for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardul today.

I Found What I Was Hunting.

When I sold my old business out several months ago, it didn't mean that I was quitting work or going out of business. Not much.

Just about the very day I got out I began to look around and figure around for something else to which I could devote my time and attention.

I was mighty particular. I didn't want to take hold of just this thing, or that thing, or anything. I wanted something that was really worth while. Something that I could go into with the same enthusiasm that I had for my old business. Something that I could sell, for I like to sell things, but above all and with all, something that I could sell to you people I know, with the assurance that I was doing you a favor.

After a good many months spent in looking around and investigating and rejecting this thing and that, I found what I wanted.

It is a real proposition and a big winner, not only for myself but for hundreds of you people who are friends of mine, throughout this section of the country.

Do you wonder what this is? Are you interested in knowing?

Next week I will tell you.

Watch this space next week.

We are authorized to announce Miss Jennie Higgins a candidate for County School Superintendent of Garrard County, subject to the action of the Democratic primary August 1917.

We are authorized to announce Joe S. Haselden, of this city, Republican candidate, for Representative at November election 1915.

We are authorized to announce Joe A. Burnsides, candidate on Republican ticket, for Circuit Court Clerk, at November election 1915.

Next Tuesday will be the regular November election. Reports from all parts of the State indicate the election of the entire democratic ticket by a satisfactory majority. However, democrats must not forget that success can not be attained unless they come to the polls and vote the straight ticket. From the large vote cast in the last democratic primary we judge that most every democrat in Kentucky participated in that election, which gave the commission of nomination to our candidates.

Every democrat who voted in that primary is honor bound to support the nominee of the party. He can not afford to stay away from the election or scratch his ticket if he comes and votes, because his vote in the primary was an implied promise to support the successful candidate. No good reason can be given by any democrat for not carrying out that promise by voting the straight ticket next Tuesday. Our nominees are all working hard. Mr. Stanley is greeted by enormous crowds at every speaking appointment. His unsuccessful opponents in the primary, Mr. McChesney and Governor McDermott, are both upon the stump appealing to their friends and late supporters to be true democrats and do their part for the success of the ticket. Both

FASHION NOTES.

Do you lean toward Renaissance, Louis XIV., Louis XVI., Revolutionary, Consular, Restoration? Would you prefer to pose as Watteau shepherdess or Cosack? Have you a penchant for ermine or for Turkish trousers?

There's really nothing to prevent your indulging any such whim this fall, so long as you remember to keep your shoulders slim and your skirt hems ample. Prodigality in bodice material and scantiness in skirt material are the two "thou shalt nots" of the season's modes. Aside from these restrictions one may go as far as she pleases in almost any direction and will probably find herself in line with ideas promulgated by some one of the French fashion makers.

KENTUCKY APPLES.

Kentucky this year ranks seventh in the list of apple-growing States. According to the Government report as of October 1 the crop amounts to approximately 3,760,000 barrels, and on that date had an average farm value of $1.50 a barrel, or a total value of $5,640,000. Kentucky apples are just as good as if not better than, are to be found anywhere else. In fact, they are probably superior in flavor, due to the longer growing season, which permits of the deposit in the fruit of a larger percentage of sugar. Compare the flavor of home-grown Wine Saps, Grimes' Golden, Jonathans and a half dozen other varieties with those from other States and note the superiority of our product, and you will wonder why we pay higher prices for better looking, though generally insipid, fruit brought from the West and North.

RAIL ROAD CO. WINS

Paint Lick Flood Case.

Last week the Court of Appeals reversed the case of George Conn against the L. & N. R. R. Co. In the Garrard Circuit Court a jury found in favor of the plaintiff, Conn, in the sum of $2000. The Appellate Court held that a peremptory instruction in favor of the defendant Rail Road Company should have been given to the jury. This suit grew out of the high water in Paint Lick creek last year which flooded and damaged the business section of Paint Lick. The Court of Appeals decided that it was an unprecedented rain fall and the Company's bridge was not the direct cause of the injury.

KING GEORGE APPEALS FOR RECRUITS.

King George has issued an appeal to his subjects to come forward voluntarily and aid Great Britain in her fight against the Germanic allies. "More men, and yet more," the monarch says, "are wanted to keep my armies in the field and through them to secure victory and an enduring peace."

The message of the King follows: "To my people: At this grave moment in the struggle between my people and a highly organized enemy, who has transgressed the laws of nations and changed the ordinance that binds civilized Europe together, I appeal to you.

"I rejoice in my empire's effort, and I feel pride in the voluntary response from my subjects all over the world, who have sacrificed home and fortune and life itself in order that another may not inherit the free empire which their ancestors and mine have built. I ask you to make good these sacrifices. "The end is not in sight. More men and yet more, are wanted to keep my armies in the field, and through them to secure victory and an enduring peace. In ancient days the darkest moment has ever produced in men of our race the sternest resolve. I ask you, men of all classes, to come forward voluntarily and take your share in these fights.

"In freely responding to my appeal you will be giving your support to our brothers who for long months have nobly upheld Great Britain's past traditions and the glory of her arms."

PARAGRAPHS

From McDermott's Convention Speech.

All concede that the gentleman you have nominated is a man of great ability, that all the walks of life in which he has been thrown, he has rendered splendid services.

In congress, he attracted attention. In his race for United States Senator he displayed great power as a popular orator, and also gathered around him a circle of ardent and enthusiastic friends who made this race easy for him, a circle of friends that any man would be proud to have.

He is well fitted, indeed, to lead in this campaign in the coming Fall, and I have no doubt of his election. I wish to say on behalf of the democratic organization of Louisville that we will give him our cordial support.

Why, the democratic signs are out and like the evening stars that shine in Heaven, the star of this nation is attracting the gaze of all mankind.

We have the right in law and facts to enjoy civil and religious liberty and as long as we stand upon those rocks this government shall prevail.

PARAGRAPHS

From McChesney.

May I recall something that happened about the 6th of August in Anderson county. I was making a speech and smiling. I indulged in the statement that the smile would not come off, and some one way back in the audience yelled: "We will take it off tomorrow". But he didn't know how good a democrat I am.

This is the first time I ever saw a platform offered that there was not a fight on. It is the first time I ever saw three reports, one after another, adopted without a dissenting voice.

It ought to make every democrat in Kentucky happy and I am sure it does. What does all this enthusiasm mean? It means victory in November.

We have differed. Some of us believed one way and conscientiously. I am sure there is not a democrat that doubts but that I followed the dictates of my conscience in the position I took, but above all questions of personal opinions is the great democratic doctrine that the majority has the right to rule. The majority has spoken and I cheerfully submit to the will of the majority.

DON'T GO TO SLEEP.

Election day is but a short time away. In a few brief hours the die will have been cast. Kentucky will know whether, during the next four years, they will be under the management of the Democrats or the Republicans.

The issues have all been discussed. Every Kentuckian knows, or ought to know, who the contending candidates are and what they stand for. The time for action is at hand. The time for thought is past. It is the duty of every Democrat in Kentucky, every man who loves freedom and the rule of the people, not only to go to the polls himself but to see that his neighbor goes and casts a vote for Stanley and the rest of the ticket.

If, Mr. Democratic voter, there is a man living beside you who, for one reason or another, figures that his vote will not be needed, go after that man. Make him go with you to the polls. The Republicans are working tooth and nails. They are spending money like water in an effort to keep down the Democratic majority. A small Democratic majority will please the Republicans almost as much as would the election of their ticket, for if the majority for the Democrats is slight, the Republicans, though defeated, will still be able to say that the country is turning toward Republicanism and that a Republican President will be elected next year.

Should the race be close every Democrat in the state ought to hang his head in shame. We have the votes. Let's cast them. Let no Democrat be compelled to say to himself on the morning of November 3rd,—"I wish I had gone to the polls."

ASSERTS SHE WAS

AFRAID OF SHADOW

Miss Underhill Says Tanlac Has Relieved Her of Nervousness.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 27.—"I was so nervous I actually was afraid of my shadow," Miss Christin Underhill, assistant manager of the soda fountain at the Herman Straus Company's store, this city, told friends recently when relating her experience with Tanlac, the premier preparation.

"I had all sorts of hallucinations and worried about all kinds of trifles," Miss Underhill continued. "I knew that I was suffering from excessive nervousness and was in a terribly run-down condition. I tried many medicines without being benefited. I finally decided to try Tanlac.

"To say that I was benefited would be expressing myself in too mild a manner. I was astonished at the result. After taking only a few doses I noticed a marked improvement. My entire nervous system seemed to have undergone a wonderful change. My sleep became restful and refreshing and my appetite reappeared.

"Really," she laughingly added, "I ate so ravenously that I was afraid my board bill would be raised."

Tanlac, the premier preparation, is sold in Lancaster by R. E. McRoberts, and in Bryantsville by Becker, Ballard and Scott.

LIQUOR MEN

Go Into Better And Bigger Business.

In States where prohibition goes into effect Jan. 1, 1916, liquor dealers are getting ready to engage in other lines of business. The owners of the largest brewery in the State of Colorado are building a pottery plant from which they expect to make more money than they ever did from the brewery. They are also experimenting with malted milk manufacture. Neef Bros. of Denver, will make "malt brew", a new temperance drink, guaranteed to contain no alcohol. The large brewery at Bellingham, Wash., will be transformed into a cold storage and creamery plant. The secretary of the beer drivers' local union in Spokane goes into the hotel business, and the secretary of the local bottlers' union has bought a confectionery. The Idaho Falls Brewing Company will convert its buildings into a cold storage and ice manufacturing plant, and at Nanpa the same crew of laborers are now employed in making food instead of beer. These are a few of the many instances of advantage prohibition will bring to the liquor men themselves. In changing their business the manufacturers and sellers of liquor will find abundant "compensation", financially and socially.—Ex. W. C. T. U.

After the marriage ceremony was performed, they returned to Crab Orchard and are happily domiciled at the groom's home on the Mt. Vernon road. Their many friends here extend hearty congratulations and best wishes for a long and useful married life.

DOUBLE WEDDING.

Quite a great deal of surprise was expressed when it was learned there had been a double wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Arnold on Monday morning at 10 o'clock, when Miss Addie Arnold and Mr. Clyde Withers and Miss Carrie Arnold and Mr. James Warford were married.

This was a very quite home wedding limited to immediate families of the contracting parties. Rev. H. C. Bell of the Pleasant Grove church united the happy couples in a very impressive manner.

Miss Addie was attired in a blue tailored suit and Miss Carrie in a brown tailored suit, as they left immediately after the ceremony for short bridal trips.

Misses Currie and Addie Arnold are to well known in the community in which they live to need any mention of their good and gracious qualities by us. They are both church workers and have always sided the cause of every good work.

The grooms are also well known as industrious capable young men and are worthy of the prizes they have won. We are glad to state both couples will locate on farms and their communities will not lose them.

VOTE FOR TOM BALLARD.

For Sheriff

To the voters of Garrard County: It is generally known that the late Curt A. Robinson was elected sheriff of Garrard county by one of the largest majorities ever given any man, and that George T. Ballard Jr., was his chief deputy, George T. Ballard Sr., his father, being a partner with Mr. Robinson in the emoluments or fees of the office. If Mr. Ballard is elected for the two years, yet remaining of the term, he is pledged, and justly so, to give the widow of Mr. Robinson half the profits or fees of the office, which as certainly belong to her as any property he left her. The truth is, an office is a most sacred property right, being bestowed by the people, the highest authority, and it would be the greatest injustice to deprive the holders of such property of their rights. It is not believed that the voters of Garrard county will overlook the principles of justice and equity in this race. If the office belonged to Robinson and Ballard before Mr. Robinson's death, the remainder of the term belongs to Ballard and Mr. Robinson's widow.

If the voters will calmly consider this, as a matter of right and justice, they will not recall or revoke what they have done, and Tom Ballard will be elected by an overwhelming majority.

PRISON FARM SHOWS PROFIT

Experiment of Board of Prison Commissioners Solves Problem

MEANS SAVING TO TAXPAYERS

Interesting Statement Issued by Warden A. J. G. Wells, of the Kentucky State Reformatory—State Farm Shows Profit of $4,826.81 During Fourteen Months.

Frankfort, Ky.—(Special.)—The experiment of employing the prisoners of the state on the State Farm seems to be a decided success. After a thorough trial of the plan of the board of Prison Commissioners and Warden Wells, there is a net profit to the state of $4,826.81 in fourteen months.

At the request of H. C. Terrell, Commissioner of Roads, A. J. G. Wells, Warden of the Kentucky State Reformatory, has prepared a statement covering the period the plan has been in operation. Warden Wells covers his two years' experience with a limited number of prisoners of the State Farm. Mr. Wells said in part:

"The Legislature of 1914 authorized by law the lease of a farm, with an option of purchase at the end of the lease. In accordance therewith, the board of Prison Commissioners, on recommendation of myself, as Warden, and with the approval of the Senate and the House of Representatives, of which the Governor is a member, leased the Martin farm, consisting of 462 acres, about 1 1/2 miles from the prison, and in the bend of the Kentucky river, just opposite the new capital, for an annual rental of $3,000 per year. The Legislature adjourned on March 13, 1914, negotiations were carried on with several landowners and a contract concluded, and prisoners were put to work on the farm April 16, 1914. This, of course, was too late to get the best results the first year. This late start, which was unavoidable, and the severe drought which followed, made it a trying test for the first year, but in spite of both of these serious handicaps, even this year made a most satisfactory showing.

"A summary of expenditures and receipts of the farm, from April, 1914, to April, 1915, shows a net gain on July 1, 1915, of $4,826.81, after charging the farm with all labor at the same average price paid inside the prison. Moreover, this net gain does not take into account many crops that had not developed sufficiently for accurate invoice on said date. These crops are as follows: 10 acres of tobacco, 25 acres of late Irish potatoes, 1 acre of sweet potatoes, 8 acres of sugar cane, 7 acres of turnips, 2 1/2 acres of cabbage, 15 acres of beans, 5 acres of green beans, 1 acre of carrots, 6 acres of melons.

"The season since July 1 has continued good, and the products above named have added very materially to the balance above stated. We have, since July 1, put up for use in the prison 12,000 gallons of beans, tomatoes, corn and apples. All the cattle and hogs are slaughtered at the farm, and sold to the prison at less price than the packing houses furnish other state institutions similarly situated. The meats, vegetables and other products are served fresh, and are altogether more wholesome and palatable than from the packers' cold storage. The better health of the prison population resulting is within itself a large asset.

"The farm, on account of its proximity to the prison and its splendid isolation, is ideally located. There are on the farm inexhaustible ledges of limestone, and within a few feet of a railroad and the Kentucky river. A rock crusher of sufficient capacity at this point, operated by prison labor, could easily supply a large demand for road material throughout the state.

"The railroad and river facilities for shipment should insure reasonable transportation rates. In my opinion, there is no place in the market which furnishes so many attractive features as this one for farming on a small scale, and for the production and transportation of road material, by the use of prison labor.

"It might be interesting in this connection to state that out of 179 prisoners sent to the farm at different times, only 4 have escaped, and 2 of them returned. These prisoners remain at the farm at night, and while they are under the direction and guard of Capt. J. P. Schnorbus, they have, necessarily, many opportunities to escape, if they were so inclined. I do not mean by this statement, however, to indicate that prisoners, indiscriminately, can be trusted on the outside. We have attempted, as far as surrounding circumstances would permit, to exclude good judgment in their selection for this work. My estimate is that possibly 25 per cent of the prison population could be worked on the outside in farming, and the production of road material, with reasonable safety, under proper, careful and humane direction. A great deal will depend upon the plan adopted and selection of the agent, or agents, who shall execute the plan.

"If such a venture is to be made by the state, a bill should be carefully drawn, after mature consultation with those who have had actual and successful experience in the handling of prisoners, and before the meeting of the Legislature. No half-baked, hastily-considered legislation should be passed in this connection."

USING CONVICTS ON HIGHWAYS

Many States Have Abolished Contract System of Working the Prisoners

WORK CONVICTS ON ROADS

Kentucky Could Possibly Save From Twenty to Thirty Per Cent of the Money Expended For Road Work on the Public Highways Says Commissioner Terrell.

Frankfort, Ky.—(Special.)—H. C. Terrell, Commissioner of Roads, when asked for his views regarding the employment of convicts on the roads of the state, granted the following interview on this subject:

"In recent years the convict labor problem has been one that has been given a great deal of attention, and prison reforms have brought about a study of conditions as they exist, with a view of how they could be bettered, and as a result, most of the States have abolished the contract system of working the prisoners and have established the more modern system of using the convicts on the public highways, and in the prisons for the purpose of preparing materials for the highways, and on other public works in the various States. Reports from various Highway Departments over the United States show conclusively that convict labor can be used to an advantage in road building and at a saving of both to the county and State in the cost of labor for this class of work.

"In the biennial report of Mr. T. P. Tynan, Warden of the State Penitentiary of Colorado for the year 1912, it is shown that there was built one hundred and fifty-seven miles of road through the mountain sections of that State, at a saving, according to his estimate, of $223,479.56; that the average cost per day per man for the laborers engaged in this State Highway work was 32c. He further states that the convicts were able to do the work of not only ordinary laborers, but some were found able to perform the services required of experienced men in drilling, blasting, laying masonry, blacksmithing, and other skilled labor. With such labor commanding a salary of from $2 to $5 per day, this without a doubt, shows that convict labor can be used to advantage on heavy construction work, and in places where more or less permanent camps can be maintained.

"Virginia also has succeeded in this undertaking, as is shown by the results. For the past nine years convicts have been used on the public highways of this State, and Mr. P. St. J. Wilson, former State Highway Commissioner, and now the Assistant Director in the United States Office of Public Roads at Washington, D. C., stated that more than 1,500 men were used on the public highways of Virginia in the year 1913; that from forty to seventy-five were grouped together in a single camp—separate camps being maintained in each county—and that the cost of clothing and feeding them, and general maintenance of the men was 52c per day for a period of three years; that the men were not specially selected, but that the road forces were made up of prisoners as they were presented at the prisons; that men who were physically weak, or even cripples, were often sent out as part of the road force. He further states that the contractors who contracted for the work had very frequently offered $1 per day for men furnished by the State.

"Under our present system in Kentucky the State receives the magnificent sum of 75c per day per man employed under contract, and the State is required to feed and clothe the prisoners and a great many of the prisoners are let at a lower figure than that stated above.

"Kentucky could possibly save from twenty to thirty per cent of the money expended for road work under the State aid plan, if the convicts could be used on the public highways, and in the preparation of the materials which go into the highways. It would be possible to establish semi-permanent camps in the various counties where limestone is available in large quantities and prepare this material for road building, ready to be delivered by rail or motor truck to roads under construction, and these camps could be maintained practically the entire season.

"In Edmonson County, Kentucky, there exists an unlimited deposit of rock asphalt, which is a hard sandstone—the finest road making material known—containing from seven to nine per cent of bitumen or asphalt base. This material has an overabundance of from ten to twenty feet of soil, sand or rock, and lies in a horizontal strata of from six to twenty feet in thickness. Would it not be a fine thing to establish here a permanent convict camp, where they could be used in the stripping of this material, quarrying and pulverizing and loading it ready for shipment to the counties for their limestone, macadam, or other hard surfaced roads, a splendid, long lived surfacing material, that is dustless, noiseless, durable and at the same time waterproof. Other camps might be established for the purpose of preparing limestone as stated above, and still others for the manufacture of brick to be used in the surfacing of roads, and a very efficient organization might be had for the placing of concrete roads as is now being used in Illinois, Georgia, and other States where that type of road is being constructed.

"The men become skilled in the performance of their duties, and, while preparing them for a better existence when they have completed their term, also reduces the possibility of breaking up the organization by men quitting. Another important factor to be considered is the reduction of the cost, the reducing of the cost making it possible for all the counties of the state—not merely the rich counties—but practically all of them, to construct permanent roads. When one stops to consider that there are one hundred and twenty counties in Kentucky, most of them having a road fund ranging from $500 to $5,000, while less than ten have a road fund of more than $20,000, it is quite an easy matter to understand the advantage that convict labor would furnish. These counties, where funds are limited, in the securing of permanent types of road, the convict labor would not come in competition with free labor, for without it the counties would be compelled to build a cheaper type of road, and in many instances would not be able to build at all, while, with the convict labor, better and more durable types of road could be constructed, as well as a more durable type of bridges. Even in the fabrication of steel material for the longer span bridges there could be obtained at a much cheaper figure, with the convict labor, than they could be done by contract.

"In summing up the advantages to the counties and to the state, one should not overlook the big advantage to the convict himself—the wholesome, out-of-door labor—bettering him, mentally, morally and physically—a much more healthy occupation than that which he would find inside the prison walls."

BUILDING GOOD ROADS

More than 80 counties in Kentucky are actually at work building roads under state supervision and with state aid. Twenty other counties have asked for and been granted such aid and are now preparing to begin work. The state-wide road building movement is on in earnest, and it is here to stay.

At the two penitentiaries, at Frankfort and Eddyville, there are 2,000 men convicts. A large proportion of that number are physically capable of working on the roads. Instead of being idle, they are let out to prison contractors at an annual loss to the state.

At the coming election, a constitutional amendment to work the convicts on the roads is to be voted on. It has been twice submitted by the General Assembly and once adopted by the people. That adoption was nullified by a failure to carry the amendment within the prescribed 90 days. The necessary advertising has now been done. The whole question is in the hands of the voters, and both political parties have declared for adoption in their state platforms.

The prison contractor is opposed to adoption. It will put an end to his profits. Organized labor is a unit on wanting to see the amendment adopted. It will put an end to convict competition with free labor. It will put men at work on the roads where there is now a scarcity of labor.

In the state of Virginia, it was found that convict labor effected a saving of $1,500 a mile in the cost of building roads. In a score of other states, where this labor is used, it has been demonstrated that roads can be built with convict labor at half the cost of free labor.

Convict labor on the roads has proved good for the state and good for the convict. It has helped him physically and morally. It has, in many instances, restored him to good citizenship, and a convict released to follow a life of crime is a liability.

If Kentucky wants the advantages that come from convict labor on the roads, all that will be necessary will be to vote Yes for the amendment. If Kentucky prefers to let the prison contractor get richer at her expense by continuing in effect a system of slavery, the amendment will be defeated.

But the voter who goes to the polls and fails to vote on the amendment will overlook an opportunity to do his county and the state good service.

ROBERT J. McBRIDE, JR., President Kentucky Good Roads Association.

"Catching" Tuberculosis, or Infection.

TO the man who works for his living, falling sick with tuberculosis means a very real danger not only to his own life but to the lives of his wife and children as well. His wealthier neighbor may lay aside his routine cares and "take the cure" for tuberculosis without materially affecting his family's health or income. The consumptive workman, on the other hand, must give up his job and with it his only income, and at the same time he is frequently compelled to remain at home, a constant source of danger to his family, unless he is properly instructed. It may save you who read this article considerable money and suffering if you learn from it how to avoid the entrance of tuberculosis into your body.

Tuberculosis is infectious and communicable from one person to another. It differs in some respects from scarlet fever, measles, or smallpox, so-called "contagious" diseases, in that tuberculosis requires repeated exposures and certain special conditions to pass the germs from the sick to the well. It is not inherited, but must be communicated through one of the following sources from one person to another:

- (1) The infection is derived in the very large majority of cases from the sputum discharged from "open" or ulcerating tubercles in the lungs.
- (2) A certain number of persons, chiefly infants, estimated variously from one to ten per cent. of all cases, receive the infection from the milk of tuberculous cows.
- (3) A very few others may possibly obtain the infection from the urine and fecal discharges of consumptives or from the pus joints or other parts of the body which are the seat of ulcerating tubercles.
- (4) In a few extremely rare instances the infection is conveyed through the blood of the mother to an unborn child, but the offspring seldom survive long.
- (5) No infection can be conveyed from tuberculosis of the "closed" or non-ulcerated variety, or after ulcerations are completely healed.

With regard to the manner of infection, still bearing in mind that tuberculosis must be communicated from one person to another, we find that by far the most frequent mode of infection is by inhalation; the second is by swallowing, and the least common, by inoculation of a wound or abrasion. Considering each of these modes of infection a little more carefully, we learn that:

- (1) The bacilli are inhaled most often in dust. The dust is most often contaminated by careless spitting; but the germs may also be given out in the act of coughing (with the mouth unprotected) or hawking, sneezing, loud talking, singing or laughing. Quiet breathing carries no infection.
- (2) The bacilli may be swallowed with food which has been contaminated with infected hands or otherwise, and also with the milk, butter and other dairy products derived from cows suffering from bovine tuberculosis.
- (3) Inoculation by the infection of cuts, scratches, or abrasions is not frequently observed.

While no age, race, or class is immune against infection from tuberculosis, children are more susceptible than anyone else. At the age of 15, frequently as high as 75 per cent. of the population may show the presence of the germs, though not that many may be sick with tuberculosis. In view, however, of the fact that these germs may lay quiet in the body of the child for years, until with unfavorable surroundings his resistance is lowered, causing the disease to develop, it is extremely important that fathers and mothers do everything possible to keep their children away from danger of infection in their earlier years.

Everything should be done at home to keep the child rugged and healthy. The father and mother, whether they have tuberculosis or not, should be scrupulously careful in their habits of spitting and person hygiene. The working father owes it not only to his own health, but to that of his children to avoid tuberculosis in every possible way.

COUNTY COURT

Brings Big Crowd To Town Last Monday.

The public square was literally jammed with people last Monday, drawn here to talk politics, sell mules, cattle and hogs and discuss the prospective price that tobacco would bring this winter. It was one of the largest crowds seen here on County court day in several months. Quite a number of mules sold at prices very much in advance of the price a month ago.

There was about two hundred cattle on the market, but in this class of stock the market was a little "off". R. W. Smart who had advertised to buy horses here and at Paint Lick, bought seventeen head that cost him about $115 a head. Taylor House sold a two year old mule to V. A. Lear for $175, and bought a pair of C. C. McClure for $340. Mr. House also sold a six year old horse mule to Richard Gentry for $140. Mr. T. J. Price bought several mule colts during the day, one of Geo. Ray, for $75, three of Frank Todd for $195, one of John Conn for $71 and one of J. C. H. Collier for $72.50. V. A. Lear sold a pair of cracker-jack mare mules to Jim Locker for $420. T. C. Rankin an aged mule of Wils Rogers, for $105 and a pair of Walter Pain, for $270. Porter Rich sold a nice team to Monte Fox, price $350. W. S. Embury an aged mare to Tom Middleton for $25. Wils Rogers a horse to Burch Williams price $110. Phil Brown 20 shoats of Sam Lakes at $2.25. Center Bros, 29 hogs of A. McKnight and 10 head of S. D. Cochran for 7 cents. Weight about 250 pounds, and 20 of J. G. Hurnside, weight 150 pounds, price 64 cents. J. E. Robinson two mule colts of Sam Harris for $132.50 and one of Mrs. John Farra for $75. W. H. Brown sold ten cattle to Greely Lutes, weight 78 lbs. for $6.25 hundred. A. B. Brown sold a pair of mules to V. Turpin for $225 and bought 12 cattle of same party at 54 cents pound.

Mr. H. G. Fox, of Danville was in Springfield last Monday where he bought 30 mule colts, all mares but four, that averaged him $70 a head. These mules were bought for John C. Robinson and are said to be the best that were on the market that day. He also bought for J. L. Murphy 16 colts at an average of $50 a round. About one half of these were horse colts. Mr. Fox has bought and shipped since August 1st, twenty-three ear loads of mules.

News Of The Churches.

The revival which begun at the Methodist church several weeks ago continues with much interest. Dr. Pike is a pleasant speaker and many souls are being brought to Christ through his noble work. The meeting will probably close this week.

The meeting at Herring's school house, conducted by Rev. F. M. Tindler has resulted in fifteen additions, mostly by confessions. Good audiences attend every meeting and much good has been accomplished.

"Russell Brown, of Lancaster, conducted the evening services at the Baptist church Sunday. He spoke in the interest of the Baptist Young People's Union, which he hopes to revive in Lancaster. From a text, "Train a child in the way he should go, and when he gets old he will not depart from it," he told of the many advantages to be derived from the union, which makes an especial effort toward training the young people to systematically read and study the Bible, fitting them for better service in the Master's vineyard. His remarks were forceful and impressive. Mr. Brown is a ready speaker and possesses many of the qualifications of a pulpit orator. At 6:15 next Sunday he will organize or rather reorganize the Baptist Young People's Union at the Baptist church and he asks all persons between the ages of 15 and 25 to be present and join. —Interior Journal."

TOBACCO TRADE.

The United States is the greatest exporter of tobacco in the world, the greater importer and the greatest consumer. It plays by far the most important part in the world's tobacco trade.

India, the second greatest producer, consumes most of its own tobacco and imports very little. It is the second greatest consumer. Russia is the third producing country, but exports only small portions of its product, and imports very little. Austria-Hungary is the fourth producing country, but imports somewhat more than a fourth as much as it raises and exports about an eighth of its crop. The Dutch East Indies produce great quantities of tobacco for export, but the consumption of tobacco on the islands is not known. There are few imports.

Japan produces enough tobacco to supply most of its own needs and exports only about a tenth of its crop. Brazil exports about four-fifths of its crop.

History Of Movements To Stamp Illiteracy Out Of Kentucky By 1920.

The movement originated in Rowan County in September, 1911, when the first moonlight schools were organized. It has now been extended to about eighty counties and to seventeen different states.

The Legislature of 1914 created the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission to direct the State-wide campaign against illiteracy. This Commission has its office in the new State Capitol, and from there is directing the campaign. It is endeavoring to establish moonlight schools in every district and also to have some persons taught in their homes. The Commission has extended its work to the jails and reformatories, and plans to have every illiterate who is incarcerated for as much as three or four weeks to be taught to read and write. This Commission is securing the names of each of the 208,081 illiterates in Kentucky who were listed in 1910, and will have same on file before the close of this year. They also expect to have the names of those who were illiterate in the spring of 1915.

The Legislature made no appropriation for this work, and the members of the Commission serve without compensation, even defraying their own expenses. Some funds have been raised to supply some reading and writing materials free to such as are desirous to learn.

Look for Matches.
Don't put away men's or boys' clothing for the winter or summer without first searching the pockets for matches. Mice will gnaw matches for the phosphorus. Bad fires are often started by them.

Banishing Fleas.
Last summer my dog was almost eaten up with fleas, until one day I accidentally spilled some salt on him. It killed every flea. I then threw salt all around his house, and bathed him with salt water, and he was not bothered the rest of the summer. —Good Housekeeping Magazine.

As He Understood It.
A Bible teacher among the southern blacks, desirous of waking the dormant powers of a scholar, asked the question: "What are we taught by the historic incident of Jacob wrestling with the angel?" The cautious reply came: "Dunno 'sactly, but I s'pose 'twas to tell us we mustn't rustle."

THE TROUSSEAU.

Suggestions For the Late Summer Bride.

WHAT TO PACK IN HER TRUNK

Clothes She Takes on Her Honeymoon Depend Upon Where She Goes, Whether to the Mountains or the Beach.

Have as few dresses as you can or you will find yourself with more gowns than you can wear out, which are sure to become de mode. What you take with you for the honeymoon depends so much on where you are going—to a country house, seaside resort, motoring or what not. Three day dresses, two demitoe evening ones, some negligees and plenty of dainty lingerie are all you are likely to want. Bouses never now come in aubas. They need very excellent making and cut. Quality is better than quantity. Golf players, women who fish and motorists must be dressed accordingly, and a silk sports coat of some pretty shade, with a white dress, is altogether up to date and becoming to youth. The Jersey woven pink ones are simply delightful. Lace, net and other soft fabrics make summer gowns, and many sorts of muslin. The new tailored skirts show to advantage in all these light gossamer materials, and jackets and coats of taffeta over them have a very great charm. Chiffon and tulle blend well together. Hats, belts, shoes and parasols must be of the same hue, often in contrast to the gown. The bride of today has a liberal choice in parasols. Some are pagoda shaped or tulip shaped; in some the points turn upward; some are striped; some have chiffon puckered on them. Indeed, much ingenuity has been brought to bear upon them.

We hear a good deal of the "silent" colors this year, and most certainly they are the leading notion, but are often relieved by a contrasting shade somewhere.

A serge dress seems even now to be a necessary part of a trousseau, as it has been for generations. There are chilly days in the best of summers, and serge is suited to them as well as to autumn, spring and winter, calculated to stand any amount of wear and tear and to look well throughout. It is astonishing how few occasions there are for which a serge dress is absolutely unsuitable. For shopping and traveling it is invaluable. Silk redingotes enveloping the figure are quite the vogue for many occasions.

An evening dress is a necessity, and there is a chance of dancing a tulle gown is the best for a young girl. If something more lasting is desired there are light silks in a very becoming range of colors. Gold slippers are still worn for dancing and go with any dress. A license of color is permissible in evening wraps, so often made in chiffon of light coloring lined with silk, or vice versa, the silk lined with chiffon. Many are bordered with the georgian ruche, which keep in order so well and so long. White fur and white feather stoles are still in favor for evening wear.

The wise bride will not have too many hats, but will choose them carefully, for on them depend the whole success of the trousseau. White and black have the advantage of being suitable for wearing with all dresses. Summer hats are wreathed with flowers, and a wide sailor shape is a dominant one. The transparent hats are very pretty. A felt and a Panama are mostly included and in shape adapted to sport wear.

The wedding dress is, of course, all important. Soft satin is seldom used nowadays. For more frequently soft lace or chiffon or even gossamer muslin takes the place of substantial satin, the skirt just sweeping the ground. Many are flounced. A tulle veil and orange blossom should be set as close to the head as possible in their arrangement or they are likely to be supremely unbecoming. Our grandmothers when they married spent hundreds of dollars on lingerie, and the dozens of undergarments were meant to last pretty well a lifetime. This would not be of much use nowadays, for we change our moods in the dress as often as in our gowns almost. Sometimes the garments are wide, sometimes narrow, and who shall speak definitely as to the position of the waist even for a couple of years, let alone for a dozen? But one thing we may make ourselves upon—that perhaps never has undergarments been more altogether charming and delightful. Every bride nowadays wants a negligee of net gown or two and a pretty cap, the stately girls choose the Greek type, the petite the wattle. There is a great liberty of choice, and oriental models suit most women. The pretty cotton creepers make this sort of garments altogether delightful.

A Time Saver.
Here, for example, is how one woman saves time. When she makes pie crust she makes double the quantity needed at the moment, as pie crust rolled in a damp napkin and put in the refrigerator will keep perfectly for several days. These she plans in the menus for the next few days to use the crust. A dessert or a fruit tart for the first night, turnovers for luncheon the following day, and if any crust remains it can be used in desserts, meat puddings or cheese straws. By using the pantry in such a variety of ways she avoids the suppression of summer, yet manages to lighten materially her work of preparation.

141 1-2 ACRES OF VERY FERTILE LAND

FOR SALE BY

EDWARD H. BYARS, FIRST AND CITY NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY.

Located in Garrard County near Buena Vista, on good pike, six miles to Railroad station, Hurlin, Ky., on the Queen & Crescent Railroad, a good town with fine school, bank, large mill and a number of large mercantile establishments. Buena Vista also has school, churches and good general stores and a good community. The land lays especially well, is in high state of cultivation. There has never been any tobacco grown on this farm and more than two thirds of the farm will grow a fine quality of White Hurley Tobacco and a splendid yield. "NO BETTER TOBACCO LAND IN THE WHITEHURLEY DISTRICT". Our highest priced tobacco is grown in this section of Garrard County.

The greater portion of this farm is in grass and has been well cared for, for years. This land will also produce fine hemp and is considered by the best farmers in that section to be the best wheat land in Garrard County.

The farm is extra well watered by large never failing springs, well distributed over the farm which makes it an ideal stock farm. The improvements consist of a good three room tenant dwelling and good small stock barn. Large frontage on the pike and a beautiful building site on the pike.

This is the best tenant proposition in a large territory, as very little money is invested in buildings.

Price for quick sale $90.00 and a sure enough bargain. Quite a lot of valuable timber on the farm.
